Many persons are in the habit of addressing letters, &c., for well-known Firms and Individuals, to "London" only; but this practice on unfrequently occasions delay in such Letters reaching their destination.

reaching their rightful owners. In cases, however well the Firm or Individual may be known, a letter should be written in which a letter is intended may be known as most essential, to ensure its correct and prompt delivery, that the streets in which it resides, and the number of the house, should form a part of the address.

F. W. MITCHELL,
Postmaster General

General Post Office,
